

TABERNACLE CHOIR GIVEN SUPPORT OF THE CLUB

Recognized as one of the most valuable assets of the city from an advertising point of view, the Ogden Tabernacle choir, by a unanimous vote, was pledged the support of the Weber club last night, in its prospective trip to the Panama-Pacific and San Diego exhibitions in 1915.

The motion to assure the choir of the necessary financial backing was made by Hon. Fred J. Kiesel and it was carried with enthusiasm. In making the motion, Mr. Kiesel again proved himself the staunch friend of the choir, for it was largely through his efforts that the choir was brought into national prominence at Ogden in 1903; Portland in 1905 and Sacramento and San Francisco in 1907. The matter of supporting the choir in its trip to both San Francisco and San Diego had been recommended as a valuable advertising medium.

Willard Sowerby, Joseph Ballan, tyne and Charles J. Ross, president, director and manager of the Ogden Tabernacle choir, were present and received the action of the club with much pleasure. Since the Ogden choir was given the consent of the first presidency of the Mormon church to make the trip, the officers have had no doubt that the venture would be successfully accomplished and the work of preparation has already been going on for the past four months. In outlining the plans for financing the trip, the choir had intended to ask the support of the Weber club, but coming unasked, as it did last night, was a distinct surprise as well as a pleasure.

WOMAN OUTWITS BOLD BURGLAR

Salt Lake, Jan. 13.—Alert as she had already proved courageous, Mary Christensen, who was robbed in her home, 57 South Seventh West street, last Thursday morning, furnished information to the police yesterday that landed the burglar in jail.

The smell of cigar smoke in Miss Christensen's home, when she entered the place last night just at dusk, aroused her suspicions. She unlocked the door from the outside, and going to the nearest telephone called for help from the police, saying that there was sure that someone was in the house. Patrolman W. M. Domm was sent to search the house. Twice he went through all the rooms, finding the man behind a door upon making the second search. Not until the policeman had ordered him three times to put up his hands and he comply with the order, and then when he heard the ominous click of the policeman's revolver.

At police headquarters the prisoner gave his name as Joe Kelly, but he was later identified as Thomas O'Don-aid, a former inmate of the Utah state prison, having served eighteen months for burglary. He was arrested December 13, 1903, and sentenced January 17, 1904. Once he was recognized by Miss Christensen, the burglar confessed, not only that he robbed the house after bidding Miss Christensen's hands last Thursday morning, but that he had returned to the place in the hope of finding more money. On his first visit the confessed burglar took $10 from the young woman's purse.

Miss Christensen's foresight in not leaving money in the house resulted in disappointment for the burglar yesterday, as her presence of mind led to his capture. Though much frightened at the time of the robbery, especially when the burglar bound and gagged her, Miss Christensen observed the robber closely, and so sure was her identification that the man did not attempt to dispute her. The fact that he removed his mask, made from a piece of black cloth, to use in blinding her hands, made the sure identification possible.

KILLED BY A TRAIN IN MINING CAMP

Price, Utah, Jan. 12.—An Italian woman, wife of one of the miners at Hiawatha, was run over and instantly killed at that camp this afternoon. The unfortunate woman was walking on the gravity tramway toward the mine and stepped from one track to the other immediately in front of a descending trip of nine cars.

Three of the cars passed over her before the trip could be stopped.

A coffin ordered from here for the woman is held up by a wreck between here and the mine and cannot be shipped until the wreck is cleared away.

GIRL BRINGS SUIT AGAINST HER FIANCÉ

Provo, Jan. 12.—Bell Brown has commenced suit in the Fourth district court against D. R. Wightman, administrator of the estate of Valentine C. Wightman, deceased, to collect $500 damages from the estate. The complaint sets out that plaintiff was shot by Valentine C. Wightman, October, 1912, and sustained a painful wound from the effects of which plaintiff's health is permanently impaired.

The shooting took place in Pleasant View, near this city, and immediately upon shooting the girl her assailant shot himself to death. For some time prior to the shooting, Wightman who was formerly of Payson, had lived at Ouray, where he had a ranch. The family of Byron Brown, father of Bell Brown, also lived on a ranch in the same neighborhood, and Bell Brown, who was about 18 years of age, was engaged to Wightman. Miss Brown broke the engagement and returned Wightman's ring. About this time she and her mother came to Pleasant View for temporary residence, and Wightman followed them here. At the time of the tragedy Bell Brown was at work in an orchard. Wightman called her out of the orchard, and after some talk, in which he tried to induce her to reconsider her action in breaking the engagement, he shot her, and, after moving a short distance away, shot himself, dying almost instantly.

IDAHO SHEEPMEN IN CONVENTION

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 12.—Democratic free wool was branded as unfair, unjust and unreasonable by sheepmen in attendance at the annual session of the Idaho Woolgrowers' association, which opened here today. Growers did not hesitate to predict great losses to the industry in the western wool states, due to the higher prices for mutton and because there are few sheep. Sheepmen declared, however, that the effects of free wool and mutton would not cripple them as much now as during the last Democratic administration.

Where formerly there was nothing but bitter conflict, peace reigned today when the woolgrowers and national forest officials held a joint conference, the former thanking the latter for their fairness in the distribution of the ranges. They passed resolutions asking Idaho's congressional delegation to secure an amendment to the appropriation bill, so that one-tenth of the gross receipts from national forests can be expended in cooperation with public land states to destroy predatory animals.

Worth S. Lee, president of the association, opened the convention. In his address he declared that unless sheepmen get together and meet the new conditions they may just as well go out of business. Former Governor Frank B. Gooding led the attack on the Democratic administration, declaring that while the sugar industry was given three years to adjust itself for free sugar, the sheep industry was grossly discriminated against by being given but thirty days.

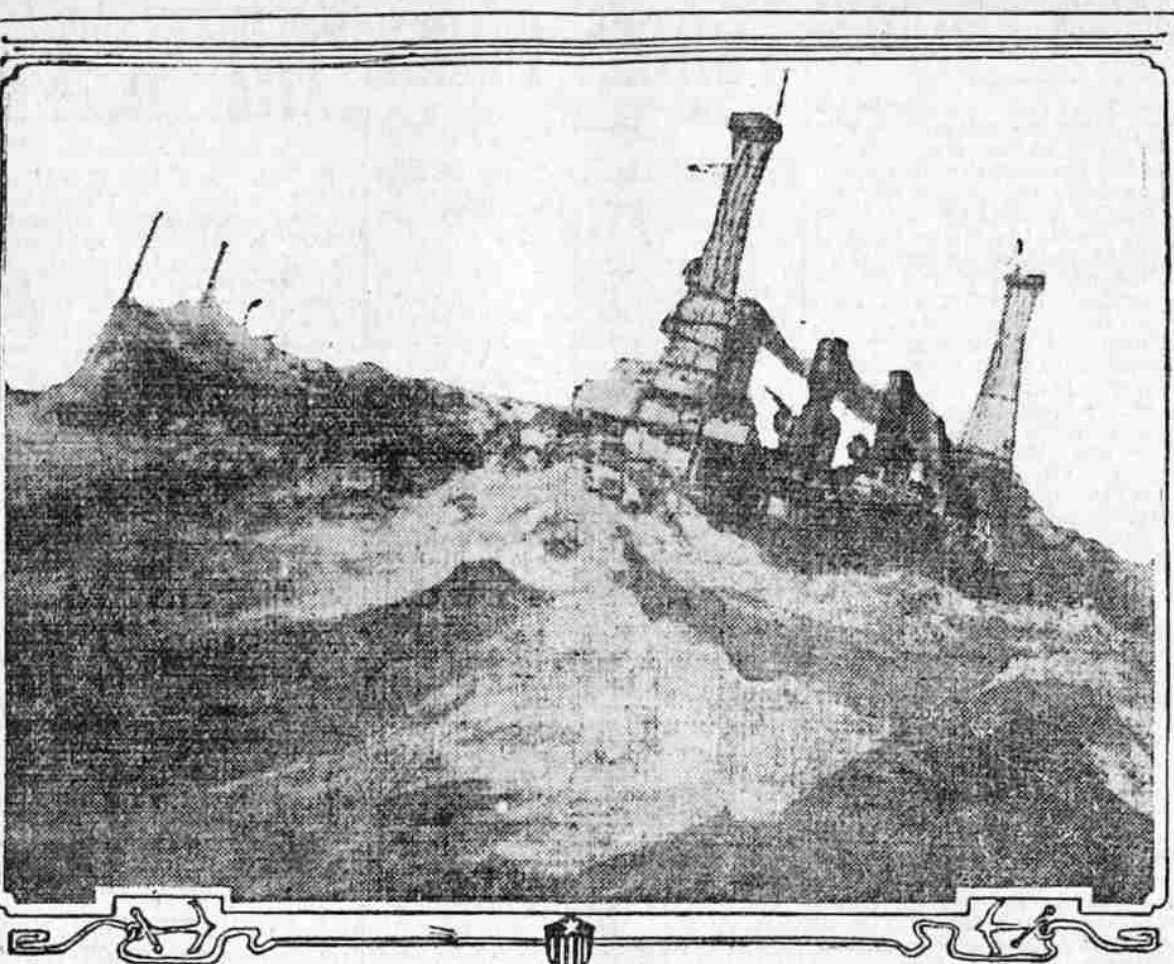

DISTRESS IN THE BALKAN REGION

London, Jan. 12.—Further reports reached London today from the relief agents in the Balkans detailing the appalling distress among the starving refugees and the urgent need for immediate financial assistance. The Sofia representative of the Balkan war relief committee writes:

"There are now about 120,000 refugees in Bulgaria coming from Thrace and Macedonia. Of these 80,000 from Koukousch, are now in Sofia, and about 35,000 in Bougas. The condition of the latter is especially pitiable."

"An urgent telegram has been received from the Albanians saying 100,000 Bulgarian refugees have reached Durazzo, whom they are unable to feed and house, and urging that Bulgarian steamers be sent to bring them to this country. In Sofia, Varna and other towns the government is housing the refugees in schools.

"I have found that all through the war missionaries from the American board and Protestant pastors were especially active in distributing relief systematically and wisely. Miss Abbott of the Sanakoy school collected large sums in America. The distress is worst around Dorgas. The people there are not even under cover, and with the frosts and snow conditions are terrible. Many of the women are expecting babies. Even in the schools things are bad enough for birth, but it is far worse in the open fields."

"Madame Mileitch described to me with tears a scene where a fine healthy young woman was confined with her baby in one of the schools. Though moved to a maternity home she died in three days, leaving a tiny boy and three other children."

Miss Saunders writes from Sofia under date of December 13:

"The mortality among babies is sadly high. In many places bread, which is almost the only thing lately given by the government, is being replaced by surplus stores of flour, hopelessly bad milk and cheese that were left over from the war provisions. A four-day-old baby is being fed on flour, its mother being unable to nurse it."

"Mrs. Noble, the mother-in-law of the American attaché here, is trying to get every society in Paris of each denomination to nominate a representative these to form a central committee which would be in position to force the sanitary and medical authorities to put to right certain abuses, such as the isolation of infectious diseases and the enforcement of clean lines."

"An attempt is being made to reunite the scattered families of the refugees by sending the members of such families to a common center."

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY.

Pocatello, Idaho, Jan. 12.—The announcement by Congressman French of his candidacy for the United States senate in the place of the incumbent, James H. Brady, has, perhaps, caused more joy than fear in the hearts of the Brady followers in his home town of Pocatello. French is from the northern part of the state, and that section has also Judge James Allison of the supreme court as a candidate for Brady's toga. This divides the vote in the north between two men, and Brady claims that he fears nothing from Gooding in the south. With a strong following of his own in the north and the field divided between two weaker opponents, Brady's managers seem all the more confident of victory at the next election, which will be by popular vote.

SERVICES FOR MRS. COLLINGS

S. church organization here for over thirty years. Both words met in a joint service to pay their last respects. The speakers were William A. Warnock, Constant Thueson, Mrs. Lorraine Larson, Mrs. Alice Webb, Mrs. Mary Magleby, Jacob Magleby and Bishop Heber Swindle.

Mrs. Collings is survived by her husband, a stepson, Ralph Collings; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Alice Blakely of Heise, Idaho; a brother, Bishop Joseph H. Jensen, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas A. Hunt. All except the daughter reside in Monroe.

DAVIS ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

J. M. Davis, formerly general superintendent of the Oregon Short Line railroad, and later general superintendent of the central lines of the Southern Pacific, has been appointed assistant general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern-Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, with headquarters in Cincinnati, effective January 15.

Mr. Davis resigned his position with the Southern Pacific railroad, effective January 1.

Mr. Davis was born in November 5, 1871, and began his railroad career as a freight brakeman on the San Antonio & Arkansas Pass railway when 17 years of age. From September, 1891, to July, 1895, he served as a stenographer to the superintendent of the Gulf Coast & Santa Fe, chief clerk to the superintendent of the Mexican Central; in the general manager's office of the Great Northern and assistant superintendent of the Great Northern. In 1898 he was made superintendent of the Breckinridge and Montana divisions of the Great Northern and from there, in 1900, he went to the Erie railroad as superintendent at Scranton, Pa.

Two years later Mr. Davis was made superintendent of the Union Steamboat line of the Erie at Buffalo, N. Y., and was superintendent of the Allegheny division from August, 1902, to May, 1903. He then returned to the Great Northern, where he served as superintendent on various divisions until July, 1905, when he was promoted to assistant general superintendent of the central district. He came to the Oregon Short Line as assistant general superintendent, with headquarters in Salt Lake, in 1907, and was subsequently made acting general superintendent and later general superintendent of the Nevada lines, with headquarters in San Francisco.

M'ALLISTER IS KNOCKED OUT

New York, Jan. 12.—Mike Gibbons, well named the St. Paul shadow, knocked out game young Bob McAllister, the California ex-amateur, in the seventh round of a slashing battle at Madison Square garden tonight. For four of the seven rounds the boy from the Golden Gate pelted the older and more experienced Minnesota man almost at will. He hit Gibbons more times in those four rounds than Mike has ever been hit before in any ten rounds of his career. They were all light punches, however, for, clever as McAllister is, he cannot hit hard. In the fifth, Mike began to fight with deadly effectiveness. He shook off the elderdown blows of the Californian and marched in, battering McAllister with wicked lefts and rights. He had Bob very tired through the sixth and raised a lump under the native son's eye.

At the opening of the seventh Gibbons walked over to McAllister and as Bob led with his unerring left, the shadow pushed it aside, seemed to hold the glove an instant and measure his man, then slammed a right to McAllister's jaw. The slender legs of the Californian sagged under him, raining volley after volley of blows on McAllister's face and body. McAllister was literally punch drunk and as he reeled around there were cries from all over the house for Referee Joh to stop it.

Finally, after a minute and thirty seconds had elapsed, Gibbons ripped through a right-hand uppercut and McAllister fell limp to the floor, and

ANGRY SEAS POUND SHORE FRONT OF JERSEY TOWN TO PIECES

General view of wrecked Octagon hotel and houses at Seabright; Peninsular hotel in background.

The picture shows a partial view of the short front at Seabright, New Jersey, after the furious waves, during the storm of January 3 and 4, battered the homes of the wealthy as well as the homes of the humble fisherfolk into kindling wood. In the foreground is seen what remains of the once celebrated Octagon hotel. The Peninsular hotel in the background is in danger of meeting the same fate of the other buildings at any time, as its foundations have been badly undermined. The total loss at Sea Bright, caused by the storm, is about $1,500,000.

was carried to his corner in a semi-conscious condition. It was several minutes before he was able to leave the ring.

During the early stages of the fight it looked as if McAllister had a clinch to win on points. He kept his left hand continually in Gibbons's face and he had Mike missing with his right, which is a rare occurrence for the St. Paul man.

Gibbons was outweighed nearly ten pounds, but this counted nothing. In the second round McAllister hit Gibbons three times in the nose as Mike was sliding away with that curious crab-like movement characteristic of his fighting. Time and again the Californian repeated the trick, but Gibbons knew there was no force to Bob's blows, and he took dozens of punches without a return while trying to land his right. In the opening round McAllister hit him at least twenty times before Gibbons even led.

In the fourth round McAllister fought Mike through the ropes and he was leading on points by a considerable margin going into the fifth round. But Mike was as fresh as if he were just entering the ring.

BILLS BY JOHNSON.
Washington, Jan. 12.—Representative Johnson has introduced a bill appropriating $75,000 for deepening the channels of the Green and Grand rivers between Green River City and Moab; also a bill authorizing the payment of $50,000 to reimburse the state of Utah for money paid to members of the territorial militia on account of Indian hostilities in Utah in 1873.

MEXICAN IS STRUCK BY PASSENGER TRAIN

Salt Lake, Jan. 13.—Jose Valdez, a Mexican about 30 years of age, was struck by a south-bound passenger train on the Denver & Rio Grande track, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth South streets, about 8 o'clock last night. He will probably die.

Together with three friends, Valdez was starting out to walk to Price, where the four hoped to get work. Miguel Archuleta and Pedro Morata were walking a short distance ahead of the other two, Valdez and a Mexican named Leonard Bachecho. The companion of Valdez became aware of the approach of the train and walked between the double tracks. Valdez evidently became confused as to which track the train was approaching, and lost his life by not following his friend. He was struck by the pilot of the locomotive and thrown to the side of the roadbed.

Word of the accident was telephoned to police headquarters by the friends of the injured Mexican. Jailor R. M. Beckstead at the county jail was notified by Captain J. J. Roberts of the police department and Deputy Sheriff Jack Taylor was sent with an automobile to investigate. He drove the injured man quickly to the county hospital where he was given surgical attention.

Pocatello, Idaho, Jan. 12.—The funeral of William Bessler, held Saturday, marked the passing of one of Pocatello's oldest born. Mr. Bessler had been railroaded for over thirty years. He suffered an attack of cerebral apoplexy on September 5, from which he never fully recovered. The services were conducted by Mrs. C. E. Brooks, reader of the Christian Science church of Pocatello.

NEW CITY ENGINEER AND ASSISTANT ENGINEER

Yesterday the new commission, Chris Flygare, concluded to make changes in the engineering department and last night the board of commissioners confirmed his appointments as follows:

Engineer, Washington Jenkins.
Assistant engineer, James Lentz.
Assistant engineer, Joseph M. Trasey.

Chief inspector, M. M. Bowman.
Chief inspector, Joseph Saunders.
Mr. Jenkins succeeds H. J. Craven, B. M. Bowman succeeds William St. John, and Mr. Lentz takes the place formerly held by Mr. Jenkins.

The only reason Mr. Flygare gave for making the changes was that he desired to be in harmony with the engineering department and he felt that would not be possible under the old organization.

The waterworks' department report for December and also that of the annual report of the sanitary inspector were received and placed on file. The publication of the auditor's report for December was authorized.

A plumber's license was granted to John Smedding and his bond approved.

The claim of the Ogden River Reservoir company in the sum of $1,955.47 and miscellaneous claims for $50.30 were allowed and ordered paid.

UTAH LAKE WATER WILL BENEFIT LEHI

Lehi, Jan. 11.—Utah lake water will be turned onto the Lehi fields the coming season. At a meeting of the directors of the Utah Lake Irrigation company held yesterday, it was decided to extend the canal from a point west of the Jordan river at the Narrows, across the river, and southeast into the old fields of Lehi. A large inverted siphon about one-fourth of a mile long and capable of carrying thirty second feet of water, will be laid across Jordan river. Piles will be driven in the river on which the siphon will rest. It will be built of wood staves, held together with iron bands, and will be built by Owen Gray & Co.

The point where the siphon crosses the river is about half a mile north of where the Interurban railway crosses. From this point it almost parallels the state road and crosses it where the Mercur branch of the Salt Lake Route crosses, and empties into the Lehi Irrigation system northwest of Lehi City.

The water will be sold to the farmers at the rate of $40 per acre.

For many years the Lehi farmers have had a short water supply, but the addition of thirty second feet will give them an abundance for all purposes and will greatly increase the farming possibilities of this section.

The water will have to travel a distance of about eleven miles in order to get into the Lehi system. It is first pumped out of Utah lake one mile south of Saratoga Springs, flows north for a distance of seven miles, and then back four miles southeast to Lehi. Work on the construction of both the canal and siphon will be commenced at the earliest possible date.

NOTED INDIAN CHIEF IS SALT LAKE VISITOR

Salt Lake, Jan. 13.—Henry Dodge, full-blooded chief of the Navajos, returned from Fort Defiance, Arizona, is at the New Grand hotel with his wife and nine-year-old daughter, Antiope, to visit his two sons, Ben, aged 13, and Tom, aged 16, who are pupils at All Hallows college, where they have been for the past two years.

Chief Dodge and his wife represent the direct contradictions of Indian life. He dresses in correct American style, speaks remarkably good English, although he admits that he never went to school, and has the air of a man of the world. Mrs. Dodge wears a semi-Indian costume and does not speak a word of English. The little girl is somewhat between the two, because she is dressed in American style, but speaks no English and is just as much of an Indian as the Indian maid when talking to the "pale-faces." Chief Dodge said yesterday,

"My people are located on two reservations, one in Apache county, Arizona, and the other in New Mexico. And they are self-supporting, too. Not only that, but they are increasing in population all the time. When the government brought them back to the present site from Fort Sumner, New Mexico, some fifty years ago, after they had surrendered, there were about 9000. Now there are something like 45,000."

"They own about half a million sheep and probably 250,000 head of cattle, for those are our interests in that country, so that you can see we are far from being poverty-stricken. I shall remain here several days. Next summer when the school vacation takes place, my boys will come home to see us. Last year I didn't allow that for fear that they might forget some of the things they learned there, but now I think they are safe."

When queried as to what future he had in mind for the boys, the chief stated that they would have to carve out their own destinies as far as vocations were concerned. The family lives twenty-five miles north of Fort Defiance. Chief Henry is rated as a wealthy man. He owns about 1200 head of cows and something like 5000 head of sheep, in addition to which his spouse is the owner of fully half that number of sheep in her own name.
